CATCH-A-RIDE

Welcome to Catch-A-Ride, a legitimate car sales business providing help to others completely free! The link associated with this manual will allow you to download our new inventory algorithm, it's safe. This simple guide will help you understand our code and help you sort out you're vehicle inventory.

First let's get your data set up. This highly qualified inventory algorithm does not require any specific column names,(however the algorithm only works for excel files) but some are assumed since they are standard. These assumptions include sections for

- Vehicle ID
- Type of Vehicle(SUV,Truck,Bus,etc)
- Make
- Model
- Fuel Type
- Quantity
- Year

Next when you run the code you will see the message "Welcome to Catch A Ride!" and above that "Enter your vehicle inventory". Here you enter the name of the file with your inventory along with the file extension. Next a message will appear saying "To get started please enter how you would like to search". Here you can put in some commands:

- Column name: By entering a column name you have selected to search within your inventory. For here it would ask you what you want to search within that column. Type in the ID, Year, etc you want to search in that column you selected and everything should go fine! This will also recommend accessories that match the criteria of you're search.

- add new: this command starts the process to add a vehicle to your inventory. You will be asked to plug in the assumed columns but do not fear dear friend! These are just labels as long as you plug in the column values from left to right it will still add the vehicle(WOW).If you do not want/have information for one of the columns just put 0 and the algorithm will move right along.

- remove: now this command will remove a vehicle. Now this command relies on the vehicles having ID numbers since that value is unique to each vehicle. Now just type in that vehicle ID and badda bing badda boom it's all gone

- output: This command will output your inventory to a seperate file named whatever you please.

- accessories: This command switches your search to your accessories inventory. Accessories are already recommended with your car! But if you wanna modify your accessory inventory this is the command for you. All other commands apply in accessory mode.

- reveal: this command will show you the entire inventory.

This should be all the information you need to take full advantage of your new Catch A Ride vehicle inventory. Thank you for your consideration.
